Arizona's Triple-Doubles

Since 1987, there have been 22 triple-doubles recorded by Pac-10 Conference members. Arizona leads the league with nine. Andre Iguodala and Loren Woods are two of the four players in Pac-10 history to register more than one in a career, while Iguodala (along with California's Jason Kidd) is one of two players to record more than one in a season. Matt Muehlebach (pictured above) was the first to accomplish the feat and is still the only player in league history to do so in a Pac-10 Tournament game. Here is the complete list (points-rebounds-assists unless indicated) of Wildcat triple-doubles:

Player, School	Date	Stats	Opponent
Matt Muehlebach, Arizona*	3/9/90	10-11-10	USC
Chris Mills, Arizona	12/18/91	19-10-10	N. Arizona
Damon Stoudamire, Arizona	2/23/95	32-12-14	Oregon
Loren Woods, Arizona	2/3/2000	16-10-14 (b)	Oregon
Loren Woods, Arizona	1/13/2001	13-10-10 (b)	Washington
Luke Walton, Arizona	1/17/2002	27-11-10	USC
Andre Iguodala, Arizona	12/9/2003	13-13-10	Texas
Andre Iguodala, Arizona	12/28/2003	13-11-11	Liberty
Andre Iguodala, Arizona	2/14/2004	14-11-10	UCLA

The University of Arizona has become a fixture in the men's college basketball rankings. Over the last 22 seasons, the Wildcats have been ranked in the nation's top 25 in 336 of 384 Associated Press polls released in that span (87.5 percent). In fact, the Wildcats' string of 312 consecutive regular-season appearances in that span is an AP poll record.

Further, until being left out of the 2001-02 preseason poll, Arizona had been ranked in the polls for six straight seasons, covering 109 consecutive ranking periods, dating back to Nov. 20, 1996.

Arizona's record in the coaches poll is almost as impressive. Since the 1989-90 campaign, the Wildcats have been ranked in 308 of 360 polls (85.6 percent) dating back to Dec. 4, 1990. The only breaks in that streak prior to 2005-06 were the 2001-02 preseason and the 2003-04 final poll.

Arizona has been the No. 1 team in the country for 30 different polling periods, with the last coming on five consecutive occasions in the 2002-03 season. The team's initial climb to No. 1 came Dec. 21, 1987 and also happened during the 1988-89, 1990-91, 1996-97, 1997-98 and 2000-01 seasons.

Jason Gardner

Jersey retired August 14, 2005

At a school known for great point guards, Gardner closed his career as one of college basketball's finest ... The 2003 Frances Pomeroy Naismith Player of the Year and the 2000 national Freshman of the Year ... One of the most decorated athletes in school history, Gardner earned All-America honors 12 times in his four-year career, including Player-of-the-Year honors as a senior (just the third in UA history) ... One of just four players in Pac-10 history to amass 1,500 career points, 500 assists and 200 steals ... His unquestioned leadership was essential to UA's success, as the squad went 107-29 (.787) during Gardner's career ... Led Cats to the 2001 National Championship game, two Pac-10 championships and one Pac-10 Tournament title ... Finished as Arizona's career leader in games played, games started, minutes played and three-point field goals ... Shined in the spotlight with a knack for hitting big shots ... An iron man who played 40+ minutes 31 times in

25-9 Overall; 11-7 Pac-10 National Champions

1996-97 ARIZONA WILDCATS

Nothing could have been a bigger surprise than the journey of the 1996-97 Wildcats to the national title. The path was unconventional, but the results were just as satisfying as the team overcame a mediocre regular season and transformed from unknown commodity to the talk of the entire nation practically overnight.

Things didn't look good early in the season as the Cats faced a grueling schedule made more difficult by the loss of their top returning scorer, Miles Simon, due to academic probation. With Simon gone for the opening 11 games, and five seniors missing from the previous season, the team was bound to suffer through some growing pains. However, somebody forgot to tell them that as they reeled off wins over top-ranked opponents North Carolina, Utah and Texas. The quick start boosted the Cats from a preseason No. 19 ranking to sixth in the nation before a 73-71 overtime loss to fourth-ranked Michigan at Auburn Hills.

Everybody was forced to step up in some way to fill Simon's absence, but none did more to carry the team than fellow junior Michael Dickerson, who quickly took over the offensive load with 25.5 ppg in the first six contests. Dickerson led the team in scoring 10 of the first 11 games and would finish the season as the top scorer on a squad full of potent weapons.

Five straight wins helped Arizona rebound from the loss to the Wolverines, including two consecutive one-point thrillers against California and Stanford. Freshman Mike Bibby gave a preview of the cool he would show in pressure situations throughout the season by sinking a pair of free throws with 3.6 seconds left in the 81-80 win over the Golden Bears.

With a 10-2 record and plenty of momentum, the Cats headed into the Los Angeles road trip with plenty of confidence. But it proved to be too much too soon for the young squad, as USC and UCLA swept Arizona for the first time since the 1991-92 season. The trip proved to be the low-point of the season and put the team in a difficult situation trying to climb back to the top of the league standings.

They did just that with nine wins in their next 12 games, with an average victory margin of 20.7 ppg. The three losses, by a combined 12 points, were all within reach and included a first-place showdown with UCLA in McKale. But the Bruins took control of the Pac-10 race with a 66-64 decision over the Cats, and Arizona never returned to the top of the standings.

Despite back-to-back losses to Cal and Stanford to end the season, the team was optimistic heading into the NCAA Tournament.

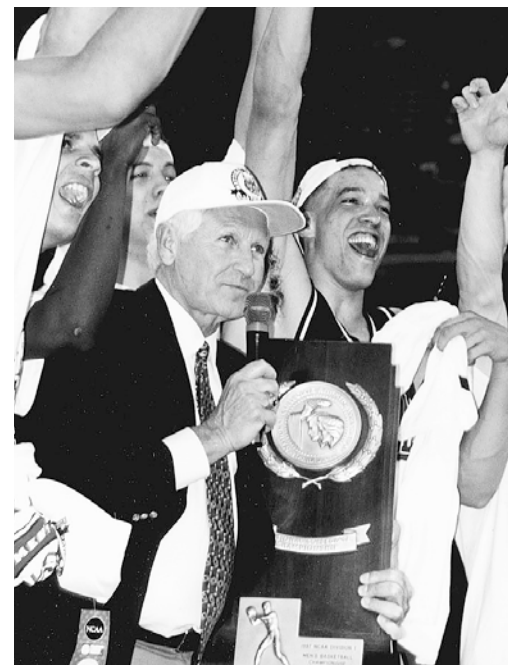

The luck the team had experienced to begin the season seemed to be reversing itself as the Wildcats lost by just one and two points to the Bay Area schools. But a fifth-place Pac-10 finish and No. 4 seeding did not affect the team's confidence.

"People will look at us like we are on a downswing after losing our past two games in a row," guard Jason Terry said the week before the NAAs began. "I hope they do just that and underestimate us. I really like the way we are playing as a team right now and I think we have the chance to do some damage in the next few weeks—no matter what people outside the program say."

The Cats began their shredding of the NCAA Tournament in Memphis with a couple of gut-wrenching victories in the first and second rounds. Down by 10 points with 7:34 to go against South Alabama, Arizona went on a 22-4 run to finish the game. Two days later, the team hit its free throws down the stretch to squeeze out a 73-69 win to break 12th-seeded College of Charleston's 23-game winning streak. Bibby scored 18 points, and Simon led the team with 20, with both hitting key free throws down the stretch.

From there, Arizona advanced to Birmingham and the Sweet Sixteen for a showdown against top-ranked Kansas. The Cats turned in their best performance of the season when they needed it most as four players scored in double figures. As in the previous game against Charleston, Bibby displayed nerves of steel in sinking two free throws with 18 seconds left that gave UA an 85-82 advantage in one of the biggest upsets in NCAA tournament history.

Lute Olson addresses the crowd at the RCA Dome after accepting the 1997 National Championship trophy.

However, the road to Indianapolis was not yet paved in gold for Arizona. The Southeast Region Final proved to be challenging as 10th-seeded Providence took the Wildcats to overtime. Arizona had a 12-point lead with six minutes remaining before the Providence comeback. The Cats survived in the extra period and moved on to the school's third Final Four appearance and second in four years.

At first glance, Arizona was the stepchild of the 1997 Final Four, an uninvited four seed rubbing elbows with three top seeds. But that was just the way the team wanted it. With little pressure and nothing to lose, the Cats calmly overcame an 11-point deficit in the first half against North Carolina. Bibby's three-point shooting and the usual big-game performance from Simon led to a 66-58 win that set up a showdown with Kentucky in the title game.

The title match, with 16 ties and 18 lead changes, turned out to be one of the most exciting championship games in history. The teams traded baskets for 40 minutes, including a wild final half-minute, that kept the 47,028 fans in attendance on their feet.

Bibby found an open Bennett Davison under the basket for an easy lay-up with 18.9 second remaining that gave Arizona a 74-71 lead. Kentucky's Anthony Epps responded with a three-pointer with 12 seconds on the clock that sent the game into overtime.

In the extra period, Arizona scored all 10 of its points from the line and built a 79-74 lead when Kentucky failed to score on its first four possessions. The team never looked back after that, giving head coach Lute Olson his and the school's first national championship.

"For the excitement, for effort, for tremendous defense, this game had everything a national championship game should have," Olson said. "I may be a little biased, but I wish I could have been a spectator watching it in the stands."

Simon led the Cats with 30 points, which earned him Most Outstanding Player honors. In the final three games of the tournament, he scored 30 points against Providence, 24 against North Carolina, followed by the championship game performance.

When all was said and done, the Wildcats had a 25-9 record and gave Lute Olson the highlight of his coaching career. Ultimately, the 1996-97 Arizona squad—one without a senior among its top eight players—was able to accomplish what it did because it believed in itself and played together.

"I'm just so proud of these guys," Olson said after the title game. "It's been a never say die group. They have had faith in themselves—they've had faith in their teammates. It's been a closely-knit family all year long. And as I told them in the locker room, I could not ever be prouder of a group of young people as I am of this group. They were willing to pay the price and that is the reason why we won."

Remembered as one of the finest teams in the history of Wildcat basketball, the 1987-88 squad put Arizona and the city of Tucson on the college basketball map. The team entered the season with plenty of question marks. Senior point guard, Steve Kerr, the anchor of the team, was attempting to complete a remarkable comeback from a career-threatening knee injury, while the rest of the team had loads of untested talent.

Any questions were quickly answered, though, when Arizona defeated No. 9 Michigan and third-ranked Syracuse and emerged from the frozen north with the championship of the Great Alaska Shootout. Three more victories over top ten teams in the next two weeks earned the Cats the first No. 1 ranking in school history, which they held for a week and a half before falling to New Mexico in the Pit. It was a short trip back to the top, however, as Arizona continued to pound Pac-10 opponents and held the top ranking for four straight weeks before suffering its only conference loss to Stanford in Maples Pavilion.

Easy victories in the Pac-10 tournament gave Arizona the Pac-10 Championship and the No. 1 seed in the West Region of the NCAA tournament. The Cats were hardly challenged, with easy victories over Cornell (90-50) and Seton Hall (84-55) in the subregional. Lute Olson defeated his former team, Iowa, for the second time of the season, 99-79, in the Sweet Sixteen to force a showdown with North Carolina in the regional final. The Cats trailed at halftime, 28-26, for only the second time in the season, but Tom Tolbert's 18 points in the second half helped propel the team to a 70-52 win.

Arizona's dream season came to an end in Kansas City, with an 86-78 defeat at the hands of Oklahoma. In a showdown between the two teams with the most wins in 1988, the Sooners kept the Cats transition game in check with a swarming press defense and used a strong inside game combined with key outside shooting to edge the Wildcats in the second half. Consensus All-American Sean Elliott scored 31 points and added 11 rebounds to earn NCAA All-Tournament honors.

Sean Elliott equaled an Arizona NCAA tournament record with his 13 field goals against Oklahoma in the 1988 national semifinal. Elliott earned a spot on the all-tournament team with his 31-point, 11-rebound performance vs. the Sooners.

They may not have had the most overall talent of Arizona's Final Four teams, but the 1993-94 Wildcats surprised everybody but themselves by making it all the way to Charlotte. The questions surrounding this squad early in the season revolved around the missing 7-footers in the middle. After spending the previous few years "centering" his game plan around a couple of towers, Olson found himself with two of the best guards in the nation and a smaller frontline. Unfazed, the Cats steamrolled over teams, proving that size is often no match for quickness.

Arizona rolled into the season, winning 12 of its first 13 games. The lone loss in that stretch would later be considered the turning point of the season. Eighth-ranked Kentucky defeated the Cats, 93-92, on a buzzer-beating tip-in for the championship of the Maui Classic, but the game demonstrated to the team that they could play with anybody in the nation. They proved that a week later, capturing their eighth consecutive Fiesta Bowl Classic title with a 119-95 win over seventh-ranked Michigan. Khalid Reeves proved himself to be one of the best guards in the nation, connecting on 23-of-25 attempts from the field and 10-of-11 from the line in the two games of the tournament.

Despite four league losses, the Cats managed to capture their second consecutive Pac-10 title and earned a No. 2 seed in the West Region of the NCAA tournament, much to the chagrin of Wildcat fans everywhere. However, the Cats chased away any first-round ghosts, with easy victories over Loyola-Maryland (81-55) and Virginia (71-58) in the first two rounds that were built on sound defense. The Cats continued that defensive attitude in the next two rounds, holding Louisville to 37.3% in the Sweet Sixteen, while Damon Stoudamire led the team with 27 points and 11 rebounds in its win over top-seed Missouri to reach the Final Four.

Arkansas spoiled the school's second trip to the Final Four with a 91-82 win. Damon Stoudamire tied the game at halftime with a three-pointer at the buzzer, and Arizona held a five-point lead with just over eight minutes remaining. But the Razorbacks wiped out that deficit with a 14-1 run over the next three minutes that sent the Cats home. Despite the loss, the Cats returned home with the satisfaction of having proved their doubters wrong and exceeding all expectations but their own.

A preseason No. 1 ranking and the national championship expectations that came with it put plenty of pressure on the 2000-01 squad from the start, but nothing could prepare the team for the adversity ahead. The Wildcats opened the season by capturing the Maui Invitational championship, but lost three of their next five games to fall in the rankings and leave many wondering if the preseason expectations were too high.

In the next month, the team struggled through the news of the death of Lute Olson's wife, Bobbi. Burdened by off-the-court worries for their head coach, the team fell to Mississippi State, 75-74, in the Fiesta Bowl Classic final and second-ranked Stanford, 85-76, in the opening weekend of Pac-10 play and any concerns for the rest of the season took a backseat to difficulties faced by Olson.

The UA mentor was away from the team for three weeks, but when he returned on January 15 the squad had a renewed sense of purpose. Informally dedicating the season to Bobbi, the team had a new attitude with its familiar leader pacing the sidelines. After Olson's return, the Wildcats turned into one of the hottest teams in the nation, winning 18 of their last 21 games and finishing the regular season with a six-game winning streak, including a 76-75 win over top-ranked Stanford in Palo Alto.

Arizona took its hot streak and No. 2 seed into the Midwest Region of the NCAA tournament and scorched its first two opponents by a combined margin of 26 points. The regional finals in San Antonio proved more challenging as the Wildcats were forced to bully their way through two defense-minded teams. But a 66-56 win over Mississippi followed by an 87-81 victory in the rubber match with Illinois sent the team to Minneapolis and the school's fourth

* Arizona was a member of the Border Conference from 1931-61, the Western Athletic Conference from 1962-78, and the Pacific-10 Conference from 1978-present.

+ Due to travel restrictions during World War II, no official Border Conference championship was awarded in 1943-44 or 1944-45. Record listed in 1944-45 reflects a limited schedule vs. other conference members.

Lute Olson's career at Arizona spanned 24 years, with a record of 589-187.

Record at Arizona: 589-187 (24 years)
Career Record: 780-280 (34 years)

In nearly a quarter century at the University of Arizona, Lute Olson established both the Wildcat basketball program and himself as two of the preeminent figures on the collegiate basketball landscape.

Whether it's the 1997 national championship, four Final Four appearances, 23 consecutive NCAA Tournament appearances, 11 Pacific-10 Conference titles, or the nation's third-best winning percentage over the past 20 seasons, basketball excellence and the University of Arizona go hand-in-hand.

Olson, whose career spanned five decades as a head coach, also earned a title that befits those monumental accomplishments – Hall of Famer – as he was selected for enshrinement into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame on June 5, 2002. In a career full of individual and team accolades, this honor ranks among the best. True to form, Olson shared the recognition with his family, coaches and players.

"I think it ranks right up there with the NCAA Championship and the 1986 World Championship," said Olson. "This is definitely one of the special things that has happened in my career. I am very thankful for the recognition and opportunity for enshrinement. I want to thank Bobbi and my family for their sacrifices in addition to the former assistant coaches and former players who also share in this honor as well."

Olson is one of just 26 head coaches in NCAA history to win 700 or more games (all divisions). He owns a career record 780-280, which adds up to a gaudy winning percentage of .736. He tallied a mark of 589-187 (.759) in his 24 years at Arizona, while being named the Pac-10 Coach of the Year seven times (1986, '88, '89, '93, '94, '98, 2003). Olson also guided Arizona to 20 consecutive 20-win seasons, and is one of only three coaches in NCAA history to record 29 or more 20-win seasons.

Long considered one of the top coaches in Pac-10 history, he led Arizona to the aforementioned 11 league titles, with the last coming in 2005. He has a career Pac-10 mark of 327-101 (.764), and the 327 conference victories are the most in league history. Olson is the No. 2 coach in Pac-10 history for career winning percentage for conference games with more than two years experience, trailing only the legendary John Wooden (.810/304-74). He was inducted into the Pac-10 Hall of Honor in 2009.

As for his Arizona career, he has the most victories (589) in school history and the second-best winning percentage (.759) in school history (minimum two seasons) with the former tally surpassing Fred Enke's 509 from 1925-61 (36 years) during the 2003-04 season.

Olson, who was a finalist for Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame induction in 2000 and 2001, had success long before his days on the collegiate level. In 11 years as a high school coach (1956-69), he compiled a record of 180-76 (.703). After that, there were four years in the junior college ranks at Long Beach City College, where he was 103-22 (.824). Factor in those games, along with the contests as the head coach at Arizona, Iowa and Long Beach State, and he has 1,063 victories heading into 2007-08 and has a .738 winning percentage in 1,442 career games coached. Olson became the 16th coach in basketball history (covering all levels) to register 1,000 career wins, when his Wildcats defeated Utah, 67-62, on Dec. 11, 2004.

His success happened not only on the court, but also in the recruiting process and in the number of former players that went on play in the NBA. With 13 NBA Draft picks in his last nine seasons alone, Arizona players routinely hear their names called on Draft Day. In his collegiate, Olson produced 55 NBA Draft picks, including 34 at Arizona. Olson had 14 former players appear in the NBA Finals in the last 14 seasons. In that time span, former Cats earned 11 world championship rings.

Arizona fans quickly grew accustomed to success when basketball season rolls around, but believe it or not, this same attitude did not exist before Olson's arrival in the "Old Pueblo" prior to the 1983-84 campaign.

When Olson took the reins in Tucson on March 29, 1983, after nine successful seasons at Iowa, he was given a program that finished just 4-24 the season before. A quick and direct rise to the top would ensue, much to the delight of the legions of hoop-crazed fans in the Sonoran desert.

Simply put, the Hall-of-Fame mentor reignited a basketball-rich tradition at the University of Arizona and made the Wildcats one program that others attempt to emulate.

In a career that has produced one major achievement after another, it was the 1996-97 season that proved to be the year when Olson reached the collegiate pinnacle of on-court coaching achievements.

After seeing his squad finish with a regular season record of 19-9 and its lowest Pac-10 finish (fifth) since his first year at the UA (eighth), he rallied the troops for one of the most remarkable runs in the NCAA Tournament's history. Going in as a No. 4 seed and with a two-game losing streak, the Wildcats proceeded to do what no team has ever done – beat three No. 1 seeds on the way to the national title.

By the way, the trio of wins didn't come against just any group of teams – they came against the three winningest programs in college basketball history.

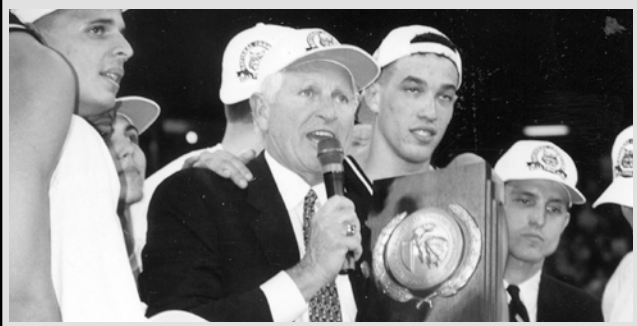

The excitement started when Arizona knocked off everyone's favorite to win it all, Kansas, in the regional semifinal in Birmingham, Ala. Then, after going into overtime to beat Providence in the Southeast Regional final (96-92), the UA advanced to the Final Four in Indianapolis, where it beat its second No. 1 seed, North Carolina. This win set up the title game against defending national champion, Kentucky.

The Wildcats vs. Wildcats match-up proved to be a battle of epic proportions, one that resulted in the first NCAA overtime title game in seven years. When the dust settled, Olson's club came away with an 84-79 win, a conquest that took place just two days after his 14-year anniversary of being named the head coach at Arizona. The monumental win set off a wild celebration at the RCA Dome, and back home on the streets of Tucson.

* Reflects Arizona record with Olson on the sideline. UA was 28-8 overall and 15-3 in the Pac-10. Olson took a five-game leave of absence during the year. Associate head coach Jim Rosborough was credited with a 3-2 record in that span.

That national championship team was built out of the same mold as the man who was in charge — forged with a competitive fire, intensely driven and dedicated to be the best. Following the year, Olson was awarded with the second annual Chase Winged Foot Award, an honor that is presented to the coach of the national champions by the New York Athletic Club.

Following the initial season as the Wildcats' leader, the Arizona basketball program began its trek into the local, regional and national spotlight. The excitement that Olson brought to McKale Center has been parlayed into sellout season ticket crowds for the past 20 consecutive years and well-earned respect for Olson among his peers in the coaching profession.

Olson's Wildcat squads finished the season ranked in the top 10 in one or both major college basketball polls in eight of his last 11 seasons and 14 times overall. In fact, Arizona has finished the season with a national ranking in 18 of the last 20 years. As a testament to his long-term greatness, CBS-TV included Olson on its list of the "Ten Greatest Coaches in College Basketball History" during the 2003 Final Four.

He put his stamp on the NCAA and Pac-10 coaching record books with each passing season. He coached in the NCAA Tournament 28 times in his last 29 years, including the 23 consecutive appearances at Arizona, and overall he compiled a 46-27 (.630) NCAA Tournament record. In addition to the appearances with his Arizona clubs from 1985-2007, he led Iowa to trips in each of his final five years in Iowa City, including the 1980 Final Four.

Olson's Arizona teams were 39-21 (.650) in NCAA play with trips to the 1988, 1994, 1997, and 2001 Final Fours. His Iowa teams were 7-6 in NCAA action, including a Final Four trip in 1980. His 46 NCAA Tournament wins place him fifth on the NCAA Tournament's all-time victory list, while his 73 games coached ranks him third. He is one of just 10 coaches who have coached in five or more Final Fours and on of 13 to take two or more different teams to the Final Four. Further, his 27 appearances in the NCAA Tournament (adjusted for a vacated appearance) ranks him second on the all-time head coaching list.

With the 1988 Pac-10 title in hand, the season culminated with Arizona's first trip to the Final Four as the Cats put together the finest season in school history with a 35-3 record.

Since that 1987-88 Final Four season, Arizona won an average of 26 games per season (averaging just seven losses), and the overall record of 519-142 during that same period is the nation's third-best in terms of winning percentage (.785).

The numbers get even better when you look at what the Cats have done at home for Olson. In those 24 years under Olson, Arizona amassed a record of 344-40 (.896) in McKale Center, lost only 12 non-conference games and won 272 of its last 296 games. In that span, the Cats had an amazing run of 71 consecutive victories without a defeat, making it the 10th-longest homecourt winning streak in NCAA history.

With the success of the Wildcats throughout the years, the accolades for Olson continue to grow. His resume includes Coach-of-the-Year honors from both the Pac-10 (1986, 1988, 1989, 1993, 1994, 1998, 2003) and the Big Ten (1979 and 1981) in addition to a variety of regional and national honors. He earned the John R. Wooden "Legends of Coaching" and the Clair Bee Coach-of-the-Year awards in 2001. In the summer of 1999, he was also inducted into the Pima County (Ariz.) Sports Hall of Fame.

Olson's success at Arizona mirrors his earlier work at Iowa where in nine years in Iowa City from 1975 to 1983 he became the then-winningest coach in school history (168-90/.651) and took the Hawkeyes to the NCAA five straight times including a Final Four trip in 1980.

Olson was born on a farm just outside Mayville, N.D., on Sept. 22, 1934, and would go on to attend high school in Grand Forks, N.D., for the 1951-52 season, where he led the team to the 1952 state basketball championship.

In college, he was a three-sport athlete (basketball, football and baseball) at Augsburg (Minn.) College from 1953-56. As a senior in 1956, Olson was recognized with the Augsburg Honors Athlete Award, which is given annually to the top male student-athlete. Since that time he also has been honored by his alma mater with induction into the Augsburg Athletic Hall of Fame in 1977 and received the Augsburg College Distinguished Alumni Award in April 1986.

After five years of prep coaching in Minnesota, he moved west and coached for six years in Anaheim and Huntington Beach, Calif., high schools. Olson was inducted into the Two Harbors, Minn., Sports Hall of Fame in July 2001.

He then guided Long Beach City College to three league titles and the 1971 state junior college crown and was the conference coach of the year in three of his four seasons. Olson followed that with a one-year stint as the head coach at Long Beach State (1973-74), where he led the 49ers to a 24-2 record. That got the attention of Iowa, which hired him for the next season.

Olson was married the former Roberta (Bobbi) Russell for 47 years. Bobbi passed away in January 2001. Olson has five grown children — daughters Vicki, Jody and Christi, and sons Greg and Steve — and 14 grandchildren.

J.F. "Pop" McKale Head Coach, 1914-21

Nearly every Arizona athletic accomplishment can be traced to J.F. "Pop" McKale. The longtime Director of Athletics (1914-57) was also one of the Cats' first coaches on the hardwood.

McKale was the first highly successful UA basketball coach. From 1914-21 his teams won 49 of 61 games, good for an .803 winning percentage, and posted three undefeated seasons. From the time he took over in 1914, Arizona won 21 consecutive games over three seasons. No coach with at least three years of experience in the Old Pueblo has ever surpassed McKale's .803 career winning percentage.

The centerpiece of the UA's athletic facilities was officially dedicated McKale Memorial Center on Feb. 1, 1973. Pop was also inducted as a charter member of the Arizona Sports Hall of Fame in 1976.

Fred A. Enke Head Coach, 1925-61

In a career that spanned 36 seasons, Coach Fred A. Enke was the man responsible for the early successes of Wildcat basketball. Winning more than 60 percent of his games, Enke amassed 509 wins in his tenure on the UA sidelines and still ranks as the second-winningest coach in school history.

Enke guided the Cats to the first four postseason appearances (3 N.I.T./1 NCAA) in school history and in 1950-51 competed in both the N.I.T. and NCAA postseason tournaments. He was the first coach to lead Arizona to a national ranking and two of his teams (1950, 1951) finished the season ranked in the top 15.

Perhaps most impressively, Enke's teams dominated play in the Border Conference. Under his direction, Arizona won 12 conference championships, including a span in which the Cats won or shared seven consecutive Border Conference titles (1942-51). No Border Conference team won as many league games (231) or overall contests (398) during its membership.

Enke was inducted as a charter member of the Arizona Sports Hall of Fame in 1976.

Fred Snowden Head Coach, 1972-82

Known for his high-octane offense and remembered as a trailblazer, Fred "The Fox" Snowden brought the excitement back to Wildcat basketball during his 10 years on the Arizona sideline.

Snowden, the UA mentor from 1972-82, and his charges averaged more than 80 points per game in six of his 10 years and topped the 100-point barrier 27 times. In that span, he tallied a 167-108 (.607) mark, a winning percentage that is topped by only two UA coaches since 1924. He was the first African-American head basketball coach at a NCAA Division I institution.

"The Fox" led UA to three postseason berths, including the 1975 National Commissioners' Invitational Tournament and the 1976 and 1977 NCAA Tournaments. His best season came in 1976, when the Wildcats went 24-9, won the Western Athletic Conference championship, and advanced to NCAA West Regional Final. He was inducted into the Arizona Sports Hall of Fame in 1988.

Lute Olson Head Coach, 1983-2007

Few coaches were ever as good for as long as Lute Olson. Arizona's architect of success took a program in the depths of despair, turned it into one of the nation's elite and kept it there for a quarter century.

In 24 seasons in Tucson, Olson amassed a 589-188 (.758) record that included 11 Pac-10 championships, four Final Four appearances, a national championship (1997) and a runner-up finish (2001), and transformed McKale Center into one of college basketball's most hallowed venues. That was merely half a career that spanned 49 seasons, included six decades, and featured more than 1,000 career wins on all levels.

Olson efforts were so swift that he guided UA to a conference title in year three, a Final Four berth in year five and never looked back, averaging nearly 25 wins per season and finishing in the top half of the Pac-10 for 23 consecutive seasons. Along the way, he coached three national players of the year, 19 All-Americans and saw 43 of his players drafted by NBA clubs. Inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 2002, Olson was named one of the 10 greatest coaches in college basketball history by CBS Sports in 2003

The McKale Memorial Center is named for UA legend J.F. “Pop” McKale, who served the university as athletics director and coach for more than 40 years.

The opening of McKale Memorial Center in February 1973 marked a new era in Wildcat basketball. After playing several games in front of crowds of a few thousand in Bear Down Gym to open the 1972-73 season, the team moved to McKale Center and literally filled the upscale arena overnight with crowds over 11,000 from the beginning.

Named after the late J.F. “Pop” McKale, athletics director and coach from 1914 to 1957, the arena is just part of a series of showcase athletics facilities located on the far eastern edge of campus. It is situated off the UA mall, adjacent to Arizona Stadium, baseball’s Sancet Stadium at Kindall Field and the Hillenbrand Aquatic Center. McKale houses the offices for the entire athletics department and basks in the glow of recent renovations and expansions that added a state-of-the-art 24,000-square-foot weight room, 10,000-square-foot athletic training facility and new locker rooms within the Eddie Lynch Athletics Pavilion, including the Jim Click Hall of Champions – all located at the north end of the building.

Following the Arizona State game on Feb. 26, 2000, the University of Arizona athletics department honored head coach Lute Olson with a ceremony to name the McKale Center playing surface “Lute Olson Court.” Then, during a memorial service in January of 2001 for Olson’s late wife, Bobbi, it was renamed “Lute and Bobbi Olson Court” in recognition of the couple’s impact on the university and the city of Tucson. Olson led seven Arizona is the only school in the nation to have two home-court winning streaks rank among the top 10 in NCAA Division I history.

UA’s 81-game win streak in Bear Down Gym from 1945-51 ranks fifth, while the 71-game win streak in McKale Center from 1987-92 ranks 10th.

teams to undefeated seasons in McKale and Arizona has led the Pac-10 in attendance every year since 1984-85.

Part of the attraction for fans is the winning tradition that was quickly established in McKale Center. Arizona defeated then-Western Athletic Conference rival Wyoming, 87-69, in the first varsity event on Feb. 1, 1973, and went on to win 67 of its first 70 contests in the facility. Then, from 1987-1992, Arizona put together the 10th-best home court winning streak in NCAA history, winning 71 consecutive games in McKale and making tickets nearly impossible to obtain. By the time UCLA snapped the string on Jan. 11, 1992, with an 89-87 upset of the Cats, there was rarely an empty seat in McKale for any game.

The McKale Center’s tradition of excellence grows stronger as the Wildcats continue to win games in front of sellout crowds. All told, Arizona has a 464-91 (.836) record in McKale Center. Those numbers rose even higher in the Lute Olson era (1983-2007), as Arizona posted a 321-43 (.882) mark in the storied facility, including wins in 276 of its last 304 (.908) games played with Olson on the sidelines. Five of UA's nine perfect seasons in McKale Center have come in the last 20 seasons. Since winning the 1997 National Championship, Arizona has won 85 percent of its home games (157-27) and established a new record for average attendance five times in that span.

The seating capacity has fluctuated through the 37 years of the building's existence. McKale opened in 1973 with a capacity of 13,658, but the installation of chair-back seating in 1984 reduced that figure to 13,316. Elimination of all bleacher seating dropped the level to 13,124 in 1986 before additional seats were added in the period from 1988 to 2000 that pushed capacity to its current 14,545. The largest crowd in McKale history was the 15,176 who watched Arizona face Arizona State on March 4, 1978. The largest crowd in the Lute Olson era showed up for the 1997-98 home opener against Morgan State (14,672), the first home game after Arizona's national championship run. Additionally, three of the five largest crowds in the building's history were registered in 2009.

Since its initial construction at a cost of $8.1 million in 1973, McKale Center has undergone numerous face-lifts to keep up with the times. Sophisticated computerized message boards spanning the upper deck on both sides of the court, along with padded press row and officials' tables with computer-driven scoreboards, were added in the early 1990s and updated with state-of-the-art digital light panel displays two seasons ago. The 1992 season saw the installation of four large video replay screens in each corner of the arena. At the conclusion of the 1997-98 campaign, a state-of-the-art playing surface replaced the old floor that had been in place since 1983. The 2001-02 season brought new changes as well. A new four-sided scoreboard with video replay screens was installed and hung from the center of the arena, ensuring that it continued to meet the standard as one of the finest facilities in the country.

The opening of the Eddie Lynch Athletics Pavilion in 2002 paved the way for further enhancement of the building as additional locker room space and an expanded academic services department enhanced the complete student-athlete experience. A new lighting system was installed in August 2006.

McKale's recent additions have cemented its reputation as one of the finest all-encompassing athletic facilities in the nation and allowed it to attract several major sporting events. McKale Center was the site for the NCAA Wrestling West Regionals in 1974 and 1980 and hosted the NCAA Wrestling Championships in 1976. More recently, McKale was a site for NCAA first- and second-round basketball action in 1979, 1987, 1989, 1991, 1997, 2000 and 2005. In addition, the USA Basketball Team trained in the arena prior to capturing the 1986 World Championship and Arizona played host to the second Pac-10 Conference Basketball Tournament in 1988, and the NBA's Phoenix Suns regularly have held its training camp in the facility.

The facility is 428 feet long, 339 feet wide and 77 feet from the floor to parapet, and houses the entire off-field operations of the University's athletics department. With three levels that consist of equipment rooms, a training and rehabilitation center, locker rooms, storage areas, ticket operations, academic services, computer lab facilities and administrative offices, McKale Center is the primary gathering place for all of UA athletics.

Since its opening in 1973, more than seven million fans have attended UA basketball games in McKale Center. In fact, season tickets have been sold out for 22 consecutive seasons, which helps provide one of the finest game-day environments in all of college basketball.

Long before Arizona basketball teams were playing in front of 14,000 fans in McKale Center, they were entertaining much smaller crowds within the intimate confines of Bear Down Gymnasium. Completed in July of 1926 by the Clinton Campbell Construction Company of Phoenix, the gym played host to UA basketball for nearly fifty years and still stands as a memorial to the humble beginnings of Arizona basketball.

The numbers from the dedication game reflect the true humbleness of those beginnings. On January 21, 1927, an estimated crowd of 3,000 climbed onto the bleachers to watch Arizona defeat Arizona State, 29-18. It took nearly thirty years before those same teams gave the gym its first 100-point game, a 104-103 ASU victory in 1955. The period between those games saw a number of changes to the building and the team it housed.

The building was originally called University Gym until the Chain Gang, a junior men's honorary, sponsored a fund-raising dance in December of 1927 to paint the school's new unofficial motto, "Bear Down," on the outside of the gym. The saying came from the legendary last words of student body president and football captain John "Button" Salmon following a fatal car accident the year before. Within a month, the words were painted on the roof and, until a 1983 approval by the Board of Regents, it was unofficially known as Bear Down Gym.

Whether official or not, the spirit of the words on the outside of the building was reflected in the play within. From 1932 to 1953, Arizona captured 11 Border Conference championships in the gym, and from 1943 to 1951 the Cats put together an 81-game home court winning streak that still ranks fifth all-time in NCAA history. That streak included a 62-61 upset of second-ranked Long Island University in front of a record crowd of 4,650 that highlighted a 1951 season in which the Cats had a record of 24-6 and finished with a No. 12 national ranking.

Arizona basketball spent 45 total seasons in Bear Down Gym (games were not played during the war years of 1942-44) with a record of 405-119 for a .773 winning percentage. Arizona teams went undefeated eight times and suffered only two losing seasons in the gym under the guidance of four different coaches. One of those coaches, Fred Enke, earned his 500th career win in 1954 with an 86-81 upset win over Kansas State.

Other milestones in Bear Down include a couple of school records that have yet to be matched. A 26-rebound performance by Bill Reeves in 1956 still tops the school charts, and a 46-point outburst by Ernie McCray is the highest single-game scoring total in UA history.

By the time Arizona won its final varsity game in Bear Down Gym, 79-77, over UC Santa Barbara in 1973, the program had outgrown the small gym. Almost overnight, the few thousand fans who crowded into Bear Down grew to three times that many in McKale Center. But the historical gym still holds its place as the first true home of Arizona basketball and is an important piece of University of Arizona history.
