2012 NCAA CHAMPIONSHIPS

The University of Arizona men's golf team seeks its 28th appearance, and 24th in the last 26 seasons, at the 2012 NCAA Men's Golf Championships.

The 2012 NCAA Championships will be held May 29-June 3 at Riviera Country Club in Pacific Palisades, Calif., and hosted by USC. Riviera Country Club is a par 71, 7,279-yard layout. It marks the first time the legendary facility, which opened in 1927, has hosted the NCAA Championships.

The top five teams and one individual from each of six regionals – Greenboro, N.C., Athens, Ga., Ann Arbor, Mich., Bowling Green, Ky., Norman, Okla., and Palo Alto, Calif. – will qualify for the championship event. Arizona, which has posted 10 top-10 NCAA Championship finishes since 1988, has earned a postseason berth in 22 of 23 seasons since the regionals were instituted in 1989.

What are your thoughts on the roster as the spring season opens?

"I think out top seven or eight guys pretty much know who they are right now based on what results we've had. Obviously, you've got Erik (Oja) and Juan Pablo, who is almost certainly one of the better players in the country. He and Erik are pretty strong at the top, and I think Tucker Wadkins may be one of the best young players in the country. Trent Redfern, nobody's got a bigger heart and nobody works harder and nobody's a better player to have on your team. He's a great team guy and he's kind of a good leader, and that's a pretty good nucleus."

With such a youthful roster, how much importance is placed on patience?

"Patience is everything, especially for the freshmen. It's a different way of life (in college); it's playing harder golf courses, more pressure, everything you do really matters, and that takes an adjustment period. You have to be patient with them, and they have to be patient with themselves. That's the hardest thing. In golf, the variables are so different. Weather, the bounce of the ball – you never know."

"I'm pleased with our guys. I think we may have the makings of one of the best young teams in the country, if not the best, young team in the country. With the recruits we have coming in, this team's going to be together for a while, and it's going to get tougher and tougher for guys to make that lineup. I'm pretty pleased with the way it's going."

Isn't it true that college golf is a tougher game than people realize? The schedule stretches over the entire year.

"Golf is tough. You're out there by yourself, and you have to take care of your own business. Your teammates can't come and pick you up. It's harder to pick up your teammates in golf. You have to learn to take care of your own business and the team will work out. It's tough when you have individual sports like that to get that camaraderie, to get the chemistry, and that's part of what we're doing. Once that clicks, it makes things a lot easier for everybody."

Please talk of Juan Pablo Hernandez's development:

"I can tell you exactly when he turned the corner. Back at regionals last year, we needed a birdie coming in, and on the hardest hole in the golf course, he hits it to within two feet with a long iron, and that puts us in the NCAA Championships."

From that point on, he gained confidence. He'd done it, he got over the hump. This fall, he played exceptionally well for us. He went to Australia to play for the Australian Master for the Amateurs, playing with the Mexican squad, and you can tell that he had some confidence in what he was doing. He's played with the best in the world, and he knows that he can hang with them. He's a fiery guy and I love it. He's got some heart in him, and he's shown it. I think it all goes back to that shot he hit on No. 18 at Tucson National last year. I think that may be the spot, and I hope he gets better and better, and I think he can win."

Please talk about sophomore Erik Oja:

"Erik is getting better. He's a great team player, he's a great person, and he's got a lot of heart. I think the potential is incredible. Physically, he's got some talent. His putting is getting better, and I think that's one of the things he needed to work on. He's right there."

"We've got four or five guys who talent-wise are very similar, and hopefully they'll all develop into superstars. Right now, we need them all to play well, because we're kind of a blue-collar group. We have to get everybody to get it together at the same time."

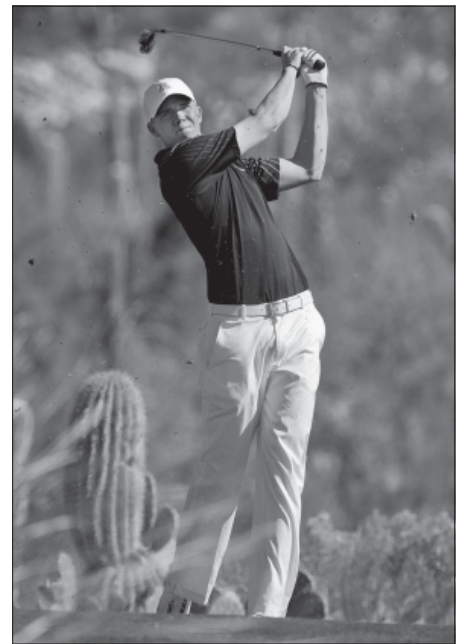

Please talk about junior Trent Redfern:

"He's raised the level of his game. He works hard at his game. He certainly doesn't appear to be a superstar, but he's a worker, and he works hard every day. He's gotten a lot better, and you couldn't ask for a better leader to have on your team. He's got a great attitude, he's a great student, just a gem. He's been like the glue that's held everything together, and I can't say enough good things about him."

What's the importance of internal competition within the roster?

"It makes everybody better because everybody wants to play. You have to take that as a challenge and prove that you are good enough to make it."

"Golf is an international game, and the talent-pool as quadrupled in the last ten years, and that counts international, domestic. It's a whole different animal that we're dealing with, and a lot of different people are good. It's unbelievable how good they are. Now, the best players are still as good as they were, but there are so many more really good players now. College golf is tough, there are thousands of better players, and you see it every week."

Do the aspirations for this team change without a senior on the roster?

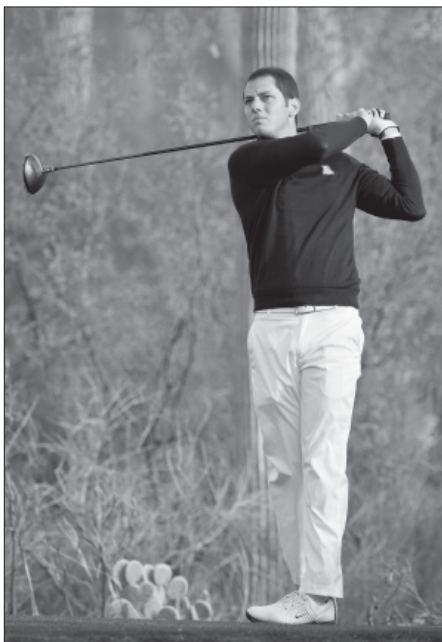

"Our aspirations are the same. We want to win every event we play in, win our conference championship, and we want to qualify for NCAA Championships, go there and win. Those are our goals every year. We set high goals, because that's what we want. Over the last 34 years, I don't think there's been a team at the University of Arizona that hasn't been ranked nationally on a consistent basis. We've always maintained high standards. Nothing has changed. You've got to work harder at it today than you've ever had."

How much personal satisfaction do you take when a team comes together:

"It means the guys are getting better and they're learning. We are always striving to get better. The idea is that they listen and learn and get better as players, and get more competitive as people, and that's where I get the satisfaction. I'm happy for them because I know success means a lot to them. That's what we're after. We're in search of excellence."

"You have to understand what it takes to win, and once you do succeed, you have to be proud of doing what it takes to win, not just that you participated, but that you succeeded."

"The lessons they learn today will be valuable later in life. They are student-athletes who are here to learn and grow as people. We want them to have a great experience and get degrees. We want them to learn something about life that they can take to their communities, to their families, and make them great people. The lessons they learn on the course have a lot to do with that, but we can't just make it about wins and losses."

RICK LAROSE

*University of Arizona Director of Golf
Head Men's Coach
34th Year at Arizona*

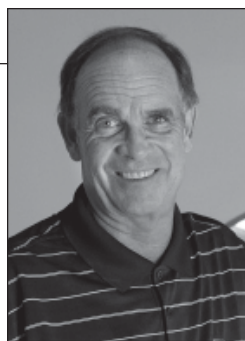

Entering his 34th season at the helm of the Arizona golf program, Rick LaRose, director of golf and head men's coach at Arizona, has established Wildcat golf as one of the nation's finest collegiate golf programs.

Year-in and year-out, the hall of fame coach has his charges in the national rankings, near the top of the leaderboard and in the hunt for the national championship. LaRose has guided Arizona to 24 NCAA postseason appearances in the last 25 seasons, and 23 berths in the NCAA Championships in that span.

Beginning in 1987, LaRose led UA to a streak of 21 consecutive appearances at the NCAA Championships, the fifth-longest streak in NCAA history. Additionally, the Wildcats have qualified for the NCAA Regional 22 times in 23 seasons since the format was introduced in 1989, and Arizona's six regional championships rank third nationally.

The 2011 spring season was one of serious improvement for the Wildcats, as the squad collected six top-five finishes in 10 starts, including a win Feb. 8 at the Anteater Invitational, and saw its scoring average drop considerably. Arizona's countable stroke average for the spring was 8.64 strokes lower than the fall figure. Individually, that improvement boils down to 2.16 strokes per man. As head coach Rick LaRose said following the NCAA Regional, "I couldn't be more proud of this team. We played our hearts out." How far did the club come in 2011? Arizona was 78-38 in the spring in head-to-head competition prior to the NCAA Championships after finishing the fall with a 10-33 mark. Further, Arizona carded its low tournament total of the season, an eight-under 844, when it mattered most — at the NCAA Regional — to tie for fourth place.

As a testament to his outstanding golf legacy, LaRose was inducted into the Golf Coaches Association of America's Hall of Fame on Jan. 22, 2003. He surpassed 6,000 career coaching victories in February 2011.

Now in his 39th season as a Wildcat head coach, LaRose began coaching at the UA in 1973 as the head coach of the water polo team and swimming coach. He has coached four different teams at the University of Arizona during his tenure, and all four of these programs have been ranked in the top-five nationally, while producing All-American athletes on all fronts. LaRose is only coach in collegiate history to win both a men's (1992) and women's (1996) NCAA golf title, and has consistently produced winning programs and individual golfers who have been among the country's elite.

Prior to taking over the golf program in 1978, he guided the UA water polo team to four NCAA regional championships and three fifth-place finishes at the NCAA Championships. His teams were never ranked out of the top six nationally and had five All-American performers and one United States Olympian. His record as water polo coach was 154-37-2 (.803). As the Wildcat swimming coach, he helped guide six U.S. Olympian swimmers, 20 All-Americans and one national champion.

His golf teams have been nationally ranked in the top 20 in 26 of those 33 seasons, including a string of eight consecutive years that the Cats were ranked in the top three. Further, the team has been the nation's No. 1 team 13 different times, most recently during the 1997-98 campaign, when it was ranked No. 1 for the majority of the season.

With the double-duty as the head coach for both the Arizona men's and women's programs (1996-98 and part of 2010), he led the women to the 1996 NCAA title and each squad was ranked No. 1 during those seasons. He also had a hand in coaching two-time NCAA Women's Golfer of the Year and 1996 national champion, Marisa Baena.

LaRose's teams have won two NCAA titles, seven NCAA regional championships, four Pac-10 crowns and three Rolex Match Play titles. In addition to being the only coach in college golf to coach both a men's and women's NCAA championship team, he is also the only one to produce both a men's and women's Rolex Match Play and Pac-10 championship teams. His finishes at the NAAs not only include the 1992 men's and 1996 women's titles, but six third-place, two fifth-place and two sixth-place efforts.

Since 1978, LaRose's golf teams have won 61 men's tournaments and 19 women's tourneys. He has also produced seven national players of the year, 11 Pac-10 Players of the Year, 68 All-Americans and 112 all-Pac-10 Conference performers. On the national front, he has had a hand in coaching two United States Amateur winners (and three runner-ups), five United States Walker Cup players, a pair of Ryder Cup golfers, a U.S. President's Cup performer and three United States Publinx champions. Eighteen of his pupils have also represented the U.S. in international collegiate competition.

His guidance has left a mark on the University of Arizona Sports Hall of Fame, as 16 individuals from his water polo, swimming and golf teams have been inducted, as well as his 1992 and 1996 national championship golf squads.

His players have also left their mark on the professional tours, with such players as Jim Furyk, Robert Gamez, Mike Springer, Larry Silveira, Manny Zerman, David Berganio, Ted Purdy, Rory Sabbatini and most recently Ricky Barnes carrying on the UA golf tradition in the pro ranks.

His athletes have also excelled in the classroom, as there have been 12 All-American scholars, a Rhodes Scholar, a Walter Beyers NCAA Post Graduate Scholarship winner, seven Top Student-Athlete of the Year selections at the UA, and a graduation rate of over 80%. He has also produced two-time Honda Award winner, as Baena won the 1996 and 1997 awards, which signified the Athlete of the Year in women's golf.

In addition to his student-athletes, LaRose has earned his share of national recognition. The 1992 Golfweek Men's NCAA Coach of the Year, he received the same honor for the women in 1996 following its NCAA title. He has also been the NCAA District VIII Men's Golf Coach of the Year twice and the Pac-10 Conference Coach of the Year five times (four men/one women). He won the 1977 Coach of the Year award for water polo and was a four-time NCAA District VII Water Polo Coach of the Year.

LaRose, a native of Delmar, N.Y., graduated from Bethlehem Central High School, where he won letters in swimming, baseball and golf. He went on to attend Brockport State University in Brockport, N.Y., and earned a bachelor's of science degree in 1968. He was a three-time NCAA All-American swimmer there, swimming the backstroke, freestyle and individual medley. An all-around athlete, he won three SUNY Conference swimming titles as well as the 1967 New York Collegiate Golf championship and was a member of the 1966 SUNY Conference cross country title team. He was inducted into the Brockport State Athletic Hall of Fame in 1992.

After his time at Brockport State, he completed graduate work at UC-Irvine and the University of Arizona, where he graduated with a master's in education. He was selected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and is a member of Phi Delta Kappa. While at the UA, he has taught physical education and supervised student teachers in the College of Education. Prior to his days in Tucson, he taught elementary, junior high and high school in Tustin, Calif., where he got his start in coaching swimming, water polo, baseball and basketball.

His Tustin High School and Fountain High School water polo teams were always among the best in Southern California, producing 10 All-Americans and five CIF champions. He was also the head coach of the Southern California Aquatic Club with his teams placing in the top-

10 at both the AAU Short Course and Long Course Championships.

He later played professional fastpitch softball for the Tucson Rattlers of the American Professional League, which won the World Championship in 1976. He has played in three ISC World Championships and was selected an ASA and ISC All-State player.

An acclaimed golfer as well, he has qualified for and played in the United State Amateur Championship and the United States Mid-Amateur Championship. A member of the Arizona Golf Association's Gold4water Cup team, he won the 1996, '97 and '98 Dogwood Invitational Senior Amateur titles as well as the 1998 Porter Cup Senior Amateur championship.

A member of the Arizona Golf Association's Board of Directors, he also serves on numerous advisory boards and golf associations throughout the country. For all his work with the UA and in the Tucson community, the Tucson Conquistadores have honored him three times with their Sports Achievement Award.

He formed the University of Arizona Eagle Club, which is a booster organization for Wildcat golf, upon taking over the UA golf program in 1978. Through this group, the Wildcat Golf Tournament is held each year as a fundraiser for Arizona golf. With the help of its corporate sponsors - Pepsi and Golden Eagle Distributing - the tournament has become one of the finest of its kind and since its inception, it has raised over $1.7 million for the UA golf program.

ANDY BARNES

*Assistant Men's Coach
Fourth Year at Arizona*

Former Wildcat All-American Andy Barnes returned to the program on Aug. 25, 2008, as an assistant coach.

Since joining the program, Barnes has helped the Wildcats amass two tournament victories, 16 top-five finishes and earn three NCAA Regional appearances — including a runner-up finish in 2011 — and two NCAA Championship berths.

Individually, five UA players have claimed individual medalist honors, five have earned all-Pac-10 honors and one was an All-American. Additionally, the countable stroke average for UA's junior varsity squad has fallen by more than a stroke since Barnes joined the program.

Barnes, an Arizona letterman from 1995-99, played and caddied on the highest levels of professional golf. He spent six years on the Canadian Tour, including fully exempt status in 2001 and 2002. Barnes played in multiple PGA Tour events, including the 1999 United States Open and the 2003 Tucson Open, and also played on numerous mini-tours around the country. He has qualified for more than a dozen Nationwide Tour events in his career.

Barnes also has extensive experience as a caddie. Most memorably, Barnes was on the bag as his brother and fellow UA alumnus Ricky won the 2002 United States Amateur Championship. He has continued to caddie for Ricky off-and-on since then, and most recently has caddied for current PGA Tour professional Charley Hoffman.

As a player, Barnes posted a 74.28 stroke average during his four-year collegiate career. He still ranks fifth on the UA career rounds played list with 169. His best season was 1997-98, where he posted a 72.37 stroke average en route to first team all-Pac-10 and honorable mention All-America honors. Barnes also was an honorable mention all-Pac-10 pick in 1999 and participated in the 1998 U.S.-Japan Collegiate Golf Championship.

Barnes, 34, received his degree in sociology from Arizona in 1999. He is married to former UA softball player Erika Hanson.

Countable Single-Season Scoring Average

The scoring average listed takes into account the total number of countable rounds played. It differs slightly from traditional team scoring averages due to the fact that the Pac-10 Championships currently uses a format that counts five scores per round instead of the usual four. The average listed is the average score per player per round. Please note that events, rounds and strokes are listed for reference only.

1992 NCAA Championship Team

In 1992, the Arizona men's golf team showed they truly were champions by putting together a complete team effort in defeating Arizona State by seven strokes. The Wildcats shot an NCAA-record 23-under-par 1,129 for 72 holes in capturing the program's first national title.

"The championship is what every coach, every player, everyone strives for," LaRose said. "It's a pinnacle, a real team effort."

Senior Harry Rudolph, the 1991 California amateur champion, led the Wildcats with a second-place finish at 10-under-par 278, while junior Manny Zerman was a stroke back in third place. David Berganio, the '91 U.S. Publincs Champion, took 13th at 286, while junior Rob Mclver shot a 293 and senior Jim Furyk closed his collegiate career with a 294.

The Wildcats showed their mettle in the brutal stretch of the closing holes, which included the 16th, a 460-yard par-4; 17th, a demanding 243-yard par-3; and the 602-yard par-5 finishing hole. Berganio was particularly impressive in the face of these three tests. He holed a 60-foot, three-level birdie putt on the 16th, rammed a 20-footer to save par at the 17th and curled in a five-footer to seemingly wrap things up on the final hole.

"Those last three putts were all from the heart," Berganio said. "I knew I had to help the team. I knew I had to make birdies down the stretch."

LaRose and his squad hit some clutch shots down the stretch, but they made no secret of their love for the New Mexico course. "I would like to play here every day," LaRose said. "It is a course where great shots are rewarded."

The Wildcats had enough great shots to go around in putting together a complete team effort. "This was the closest team I have ever been on," said Zerman. "We wanted to win."

TAKE NOTE

- Since 1980, former UA golfers have won 61 professional tournaments worldwide, including 36 PGA Tour events and nine foreign tour events.
- A former UA golfer has won at least one professional tournament in every year since 1985. UA alums also have PGA tour wins in 12 of the last 13 seasons.
- Four former Wildcat golfers were included on the 2011 PGA Tour Money List (as of Aug. 25), including three ranked in the top 100 (Rory Sabbatini, 24th; Jim Furyk, 80th; Ricky Barnes, 87th). Additionally, UA alums, Don Pooley (76th, Champions) and Chris Nallen (62nd, Nationwide) posted solid finishes on their respective tour's Money List. All told, former Wildcats earned more than $18.5 million in prize money in 2010 on the PGA Tour, including the Tour Championship.
- With a victorious appearance for the United States in the 2010 Ryder Cup matches, Jim Furyk, a member of UA's 1992 national championship team, has played in each of the last seven Ryder Cups and each of the last six President's Cup events.

Tucson, Ariz.

Situated in the heart of Southern Arizona, Tucson is a city of stunning contrast and diversity. From the broad desert valley of world-famous saguaro cacti to 9,000-foot mountain forests of pine trees and snow, the city stands at a crossroads geographically and culturally.

In the metropolitan Tucson area, a population of just over one million is spread along a main valley floor of some 20 miles between Rincon mountain ranges to the east and the Tucson mountains to the west and into the foothills nestled against the backdrop of the Santa Catalina range to the north. On any of the 350 days of sunshine per year, the Santa Rita Mountains can be seen some 65 miles to the south between Arizona and Mexico.

It's just a 40-minute drive to the top of Mt. Lemmon, the southern-most ski resort in the United States, affording winter activities on the same day as a round of golf or any myriad of recreational opportunities in the area. Outdoor activities are the norm with hundreds of miles of hiking and biking trails, highlighted by Sabino Canyon which showcases the beauty of the desert with river-guided trails leading into the mountains.

The Sonoran Desert provides a unique setting. Far from the Saharan sand dunes that most first-time visitors expect, the desert boasts a wide range of wildlife and vegetation. An afternoon drive through the Saguaro National Park with its world-famous display of saguaro cacti highlights the unique beauty of the area. The unique Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum, with its rich collection of desert wildlife and vegetation, is another popular visitors' destination. Tucson is a two-hour drive from Tombstone, a two-hour drive from Phoenix, four hours from Mexico's Gulf of California coast, 70 miles from border city Nogales and within hours' drives from several major international bird-watching areas. World-class astronomy facilities on four nearby mountain ranges also attract visitors and specialists alike.

In addition to its natural attractions, Tucson features a wide range of cultural experiences. From the first Native American inhabitants to the earliest Spanish settlers to its current inhabitants, each group left an indelible mark on Tucson. Native American, Mexican and American Southwest influences are prevalent throughout the city. The Mission of San Xavier del Bac, located just nine miles from campus on the Tohono O'odham Nation, is one of the original missions built by the Spanish missionaries, and the artist colonies of Tubac and Bisbee are within a few hours drive as well.

Continuously settled for more than 12,000 years – the oldest such settlement in the United States— Tucson has grown from a small Native American village into one of the Sunbelt growth cities of the 21st century. It is one of the premier astronomy and optics centers in the world, an important health sciences hub and home to a renowned research institution in the University of Arizona.

Tucson has held fast to its small-town ambience, despite explosive growth. Historic sites compete with new resort-minded centers for nighttime entertainment and shopping, and the University constantly holds the center of the city's attention with its athletics and cultural activities.

Phoenix is a two-hour drive to the north and is home to NBA, NFL, NHL, Major League Baseball and WNBA franchises. Further north lie international attractions like the Grand Canyon, Sedona, the Painted Desert, Monument Valley and Lakes Powell and Mead. Las Vegas is only a seven-hour road trip away, as are other Pacific beach cities; San Diego is less than six hours away.

The nights are always cooler in the desert after a splendid sunset or a mid-afternoon dousing from a summer monsoon. That's when Tucson's small-town attitude and big-city potential reveal themselves in the nighttime entertainment. From cultural events at the UA's Centennial Hall or the historic Fox Theatre, to the hot spots for a youthful population, there are activities to engage most any interest.

The melding of the city's diverse influences makes Tucson an ideal choice as a home, a vacation spot and a business magnet. With a population that includes college students, families of all backgrounds and thriving groups of young professionals and retirees, Tucson is a city with something for everyone.

The University of Arizona

Founded on 40 acres of land donated by a saloon-keeper and two gamblers, and funded by a $25,000 consolation prize in Tucson's competition for the Territorial capital, the University of Arizona rose from the desert floor of the true old West. Nobody wanted it, and fewer believed it would last. Fortunately, they were wrong, and the bet laid down by E.B. Gifford, Ben C. Parker and W.S. "Billy" Read on Nov. 27, 1886, has paid off into one of the finest research institutions in the world.

When the first 32 students arrived at the only building on campus in 1891, they began a tradition that has now entered its third century. The hitching posts for horses required to reach the edge of town may be gone, but "Old Main" remains as witness to the University's growth into a 400-acre Research I institution with nearly 200 buildings, more than 39,000 students, and a faculty and staff of 12,000.

Arizona's first university is the largest employer in Pima County and among the top 10 in Arizona with a payroll of half a billion dollars. The UA offers more than 325 degree fields in a dozen different colleges and another similar group of specialized schools.

The University of Arizona is one of the top 20 research universities in the nation and has played a part in groundbreaking projects ranging from the exploration of Mars to the development of new cancer treatments and pioneering breakthroughs in heart transplantation. UA's observational, theoretical and space astronomy programs have been ranked No. 1 in the country by the National Science Foundation (NSF) and recent other rankings placed 17 of the University's graduate programs among the top 20 in the nation. In addition, the Nobel Prize, three Pulitzer Prizes and the National Medal of Science have been bestowed upon Arizona educators.

Not to be forgotten, the University's undergraduate programs continue to flourish. The NSF considers Arizona to be one of the 10 universities that best integrates teaching and research for undergraduates. The NASA-funded space grant program pays undergraduates to work in laboratories alongside faculty, and the Undergraduate Biology Research Program includes 43 departments, involves 240 faculty sponsors and funds 140 undergraduate researchers annually. The Eller College of Management and the McGuire Center for Entrepreneurship are rated in the global top 10 by Finance Times. The University was named in an Elite 50 list of institutions for academically-minded athletes in 2009.

UA's top-notch programs develop top-name graduates who have continued on to success in their respective fields. The UA boasts a laundry list of graduates who have significantly impacted society. From the late U.S. Congressman Morris K. Udall to Joan Ganz Cooney, founder of the Children's Television Workshop, to Emmy Award winning actor/comedian Garry Shandling, UA graduates have made their mark on the world.

The UA also plays host to the world, with students representing all 50 states and 130 countries. Nearly a quarter of the student body consists of under-represented racial and ethnic groups, and the campus is located in one of the most diverse locations in the country, with the influence of Native American and Mexican cultures evident throughout the Tucson community.

The University of Arizona is in its third century of service with a continued commitment to providing support to its undergraduate population. Recently completed and current construction projects are testaments to the fact that the UA is dedicated to continued progress. The Integrated Learning Center, located underneath the grass Mall in the middle of campus, provides a home base for freshmen, with classrooms and offices for easier access to faculty and staff. The Student Union embraces the ambience of the Southwest with shaded terraces and open-air walkways, and provides numerous services such as the bookstore, technology center and varied restaurants that serve the UA community. The SALT (Strategic Alternative Learning Techniques) Center enhances aid to students with learning disabilities.

This commitment to excellence ensures that the University of Arizona will continue to grow from its auspicious beginnings as a single-building outpost in the desert into a world-renowned center for knowledge and research well into the next century.

Inerim University President Dr. Eugene G. Sander

Dr. Eugene G. Sander became the 20th president of the University of Arizona on Aug. 1, 2011. Sander was vice provost and dean of the UA's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, and was scheduled to retire on July 1, 2011, when he decided to postpone retirement to fill the UA's top post.

He served as executive vice president and provost of the University from July 2007 through April 2008 during the search for a permanent provost, and he also served as vice president for University Outreach from 2006 to 2009.

Sander's goal is to further the mission of the University by improving life for the people of Arizona and beyond – through education, research, creative expression and community engagement.

As vice provost and dean of the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, Sander oversaw 11 academic departments and two schools, with research stations and offices throughout Arizona. Sander concurrently served as the director of the Agricultural Experiment Station and acting director of Cooperative Extension.

Sander holds degrees from the University of Minnesota (B.S.) and Cornell University (M.S., Ph.D.) and completed postdoctoral study at Brandeis University. Prior to his move to Arizona, Sander served as the as deputy chancellor for biotechnology development, director of the Institute of Biosciences and Technology, and head of the department of biochemistry and biophysics for the Texas A&M University system.

He was chair of the department of biochemistry at West Virginia University Medical Center and associate chair of the department of biochemistry and molecular biology at the College of Medicine, University of Florida. As an officer in the United States Air Force, he was the assistant chief of the biospecialties section at the Aerospace Medical Research Laboratory.

As a biochemist, Sander worked in the field of mechanisms by which enzymes catalyze reactions. His research program resulted in numerous publications, presentations and book chapters. It also contributed to the education of five graduate and 18 postdoctoral students. He has held the academic rank of professor at all of the institutions with which he has been affiliated.

In 2011 he was named a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Sander is married to Dr. Louise M. Canfield and has two children, Jay and Kathy, both of whom are Arizona graduates.

Director of Athletics Greg Byrne

Greg Byrne was named Arizona's 11th Director of Athletics in March 2010 and officially assumed the reins on May 3, 2010.

In his short time with Arizona, Byrne has led the charge on new fundraising initiatives and member expansion for the Wildcat Club. Under his leadership, the Wildcats have seen construction completed on a new men's basketball lockerroom, implementation of a new video board for the south end zone of Arizona Stadium and the beginning stages of a north end zone football facility.

Prior to Arizona, Byrne was Mississippi State University's Director of Athletics, where he was the youngest top athletic administrator in the Southeastern Conference and the youngest to lead an athletic program at the NCAA Division I-A level. He started out his career at MSU in June 2006 as Associate Athletic Director for External Affairs.

He has been around successful athletic programs, and the director's chair, literally all his life. He is the son of long-time athletic administrator Bill Byrne, currently the Director of Athletics at Texas A&M University.

Byrne, however, has made a name for himself in intercollegiate athletics. He had 15 years of professional experience prior to assuming the AD's position, a resume that shows progressive growth in both responsibility and achievement. He has been directly involved in raising over $160 million in gifts during his career in athletics.

A native of Pocatello, Idaho, Byrne earned his bachelor's degree in 1994 and his master's degree from Mississippi State in 2009. Byrne is married to the former Regina Misa of Junction City, Ore., and the couple has two sons, Nick and Davis.

The Pac-12 Conference

The Pac-12 rises above the rest, upholding its tradition as the "Conference of Champions"®, claiming an incredible 180 NCAA team titles over the past two decades, including nine in 2010-11, averaging nearly nine championships per academic year. Even more impressive has been the breadth of the Pac-12's success, with championships coming in 27 different men's and women's sports. The Pac-12 has led the nation in NCAA Championships in 45 of the last 51 years and finished second five times.

Spanning nearly a century of outstanding athletics achievements, the Pac-12 was the first conference to reach 400 championships in 2010-11. With the inclusion of CU and UU, league teams have captured 442 NCAA titles (302 men's, 140 women's), outdistancing the next closest conference by nearly 200.

With the additions of Colorado and Utah, Pac-12 members have won 302 NCAA team titles on the men's side, 89 more than the next closest conference. Men's NCAA crowns have come at a phenomenal rate for the Pac-12 - 16 basketball titles by six schools (more than any other conference), 52 tennis titles, 44 outdoor track & field crowns, and 26 baseball titles. Pac-12 members have won 25 of 42 NCAA volleyball titles, 37 of 42 in water polo, and 22 in swimming and diving. Individually, the Conference has produced an impressive number of NCAA men's individual champions, as well, boasting 2,019 individual crowns.

On the women's side, the story is much the same. Since the NCAA began conducting women's championships 30 years ago, Pac-12 members have claimed at least four national titles in a single season on 22 occasions, including 2010-11. Overall, the Pac-12 has captured 140 NCAA women's titles, easily outdistancing the SEC, which is second, with 77. Pac-12 members have dominated a number of sports, winning 23 softball titles, 19 tennis crowns, 13 of the last 21 volleyball titles, 14 of the last 22 trophies in golf, and 12 in swimming & diving. Pac-12 women student-athletes shine nationally on an individual basis as well, capturing an unmatched 616 NCAA individual crowns, an average of nearly 21 championships per year.

The roots of the Pac-12 Conference date back over 95 years to December 2, 1915, when the Pacific Coast Conference (PCC) was founded at a meeting at the Oregon Hotel in Portland, Ore. The original membership consisted of four schools - the University of California at Berkeley, the University of Washington, the University of Oregon, and Oregon State College (now Oregon State University). All remain members of the Conference.

Pacific Coast Conference play began in 1916 and, one year later, Washington State College (now Washington State University) was accepted into the league, with Stanford University following in 1918.

In 1922, the PCC expanded to eight teams with the admission of the University of Southern California (USC) and the University of Idaho. In 1924, the University of Montana joined the league roster, and in 1928, the PCC grew to 10 members with the addition of UCLA.

The Pacific Coast Conference competed as a 10-member league until 1950. During that time, the league's first commissioner was named. Edwin N. Atherton was Commissioner in 1940 and was succeeded by Victor O. Schmidt in 1944.

In 1959, the PCC was dissolved and the Athletic Association of Western Universities was formed and Thomas J. Hamilton was appointed Commissioner of the new league. The original AAUW membership included California, Stanford, Southern California, UCLA and Washington. Washington State joined the membership in 1962, while Oregon and Oregon State joined in 1964. Under Hamilton's watch, the name Pacific-8 Conference was adopted in 1968. In 1971, Wiles Hallock took over as Commissioner of the Pac-8.

A decade later, on July 1, 1978, the University of Arizona and Arizona State University were admitted and the Pacific-10 Conference became a reality. In 1986-87, the league took on a new look, expanding to include 10 women's sports. Thomas C. Hansen was named the Commissioner of the Pac-10 in 1983, a role he would hold for 26 years until 2009. He was succeeded by current Commissioner Larry Scott, who joined the league in July 2009.

Currently, the Pac-12 sponsors 11 men's sports and 11 women's sports. Additionally, the Conference is a member of the Mountain Pacific Sports Federation (MPSF) in four other men's sports and three women's sports.
